Dream House -Green House!

Thank you for making my Dream Come True, I never thought I would ever own my own greenhouse. It arrived at the end of July and I helped my Dad to erect it, I was his apprentice. He has also made me a table for inside, which I need to work on. Friends have been very kind and given me plants and seeds to start me off. It will be next year before any advantages of the greenhouse will be seen, but for me it will be a year of happiness. I enclose a picture taken by our County photographer, Margaret Stephenson.

I thought you would like to know that I have passed my first year exam in Floristry Practical. I think this must be one of my happiest and luckiest years.

At present I am saving cartons for the Brownies to plant bulbs later, as Brown Owl is going into hospital and this is one way I can help her.

Once my greenhouse is well under way I may write to you again and tell you what I am growing.

Thank you again for making my dream come true.

Sailing

The bursary which I was granted from the Olave Baden-Powell Fund went towards a Sail Training Cruise on the 'Malcolm Miller', a 150 ft three-masted top sail schooner (see March GUID-ING), which carried a permanent trew of 16 and 39 trainees (including myself) who hadn't sailed the ship before.

I joined the ship for three weeks. The first week was spent 'in port' at Southampton doing maintenance work.

We set sail on the Monday of the second week. Once the sails were all hoisted and set (a lengthy and confusing process the first time!) it looked as though we were in for a gentle 'first sail' as we drifted down Southampton Water. As we rounded the Isle of Wight, however, the wind began to pick up and it wasn't long before there was a line of 'bodies' hung over the rail as seasickness set in!

Our minds were taken off our own worries on Wednesday when a distress flare was spotted. Soon we were dragging aboard a 'lone yachtsman' whose yacht sank within minutes of us rescuing him.

During the next week we began to get into the routine of sailing. The weather was mostly good, although we had an afternoon of sailing in thick fog, which caused a few anxious moments when the radar picked up other ships nearby. We each tried all aspects

CANADA

Thank you so much for the money you sent, you cannot imagine what pleasure it brought me — not only did the trip widen my knowledge about Canada but also about Guiding.

There were sixteen in our party, all Guides, Rangers or Venture Scouts who were or had been members of the 1st Keston Company.

The trip took three weeks, in which time we travelled through the prairies, the Rockies, the Coastal Mountains, Vancouver Island and Banff and Jasper National Parks.

We flew to Edmonton, travelled to Drumheller, Calgary, Banff and Jasper, through the spectacular scenery of the Rocky Mountains, with the St Albert Pathfinders, on a charter bus. On this part of the journey we somehow found time to visit a Heritage Park, visit many museums, go on walks in parks and up mountains, meet a Mountie, do square dancing and swim in hot springs.

We caught the Greyhound coach to Prince George, BC, where we stayed with families. I was lucky enough to stay with three families, who were very kind hosts.

We then met up with the Pathfinders who were going to camp with us. The camp was in log cabins on the side of a beautiful lake. This was very easy camping, as we had hot showers, a cooker, fridge and flushable loos! We canoed and swam nearly all day. We also visited an Indian Reserve and other interesting places.

After five days we travelled on to my pen-friend's home town of Prince Rupert, on the West Coast. There we stayed for a couple of days, then flew down the coast to Vancouver, caught a ferry to Victoria, Vancouver Island, where we stayed in a Guide house for two days. When we returned to Vancouver we realised that we sadly had finished our unbelievable holiday, having covered thousands of miles across the beautiful and spectacular country of Canada.

This holiday made me realise what Guiding is all about — the bond between people, although strangers, is so great because they are united as a family.

Going to an unknown country as a Guide is like going to a country of friends.

Once again, thank you, you have been like fairy godmothers to me.

Sarah Starky, Guide, Lincoln.

of sailing, managing the sails (including climbing the rigging), helming, navigating and so on, as well as day-to-day maintenance work. We visited French and Channel Island ports, and it made quite a change to see everyone 'dressing up' to go out in the evenings!

The cruise provided us with a great variety of experiences which I will remember for many years to come.

Jenny Phillips (Wetherby Ranger/Venture Unit), Yorks.

By Penny Farbrother – Member of the Junior Council 5 6

March 5th once again saw young Guiders, Rangers and Young Leaders arriving in London from each Country and Region of the United Kingdom for a weekend meeting of the Junior Council. The Junior Council has been very active since its first meeting three years ago, with two busy meetings a year; one over a weekend and one on a Saturday. This weekend proved no exception as far as being busy was concerned!

The meeting opened with a welcome from our Chairman, Ishbel Hartley. We then received a report from The Chief Commissioner, who unfortunately could not be with us, and a verbal one from Ishbel. The first item for discussion on our agenda was Press and Publicity. Mrs Fitzpatrick, the Public Relations Secretary, and Mrs Arnold, the Public Relations Adviser, were able to give us the background concerning Public Relations work, and much lively discussion followed, most people having, at some time or another, been frustrated by internal communication channels which can cause problems in an Association as large and dispersed as ours. We also discussed the difficulties involved in getting good media publicity for the Association. Some very constructive ideas were put forward on the subject, particularly with regard to the need for effective publicity, at all levels, on our 75th Anniversary in 1985.

Next on the agenda came LINK. The Chairman of LINK, Jeremy Barber, spoke to us about this 'lesser known' sector of the Movement, which does much valuable work in the background, providing support for lots of Guiding and Scouting projects, and other pursuits. LINK is a non-uniformed part of the Guide Association for young people of either sex aged between 18 and 30.

Unemployment was another item on our agenda, and there was much discussion about practical ways in which The Girl Guides Association could become more involved in this very important area and, while acknowledging the valuable work which has already been done at all levels of the Association, it was considered important to see how the rôle of the Association could be extended further.

As always, a weekend barely seemed to give us enough time to scratch the surface of the issues we discussed, but I am sure that the rôle of the Junior Council is an important one, which gives an opportunity for the 'younger' part of the leadership a chance to be involved in national level discussions, and a chance to put forward ideas from the viewpoint of a younger person.

Guides and Brownies Help British Rail — and Raise £1,100 For Themselves

By helping British Rail sell bargain family train travel, Guides and Brownies in the York area have raised £1,100 towards building their own camp centre and Pack Holiday house, and a place from which handicapped girls can take part in camp and outdoor activities.

The girls boosted their own building fund and helped BR publicise the Family Railcard by playing the 'Family Rail Game', a rail and general knowledge quiz open to their families, friends and neighbours: and 40 of them have also won valuable family train travel prizes. These were presented on Monday 11 April when The Chief Commissioner visited York as a guest of Mr Frank Paterson, General Manager of BR's Eastern Region.

The Lady Baden-Powell was greeted by a Guard of Honour at York Railway Station, and reviewed a parade of Guides and Brownies outside the Station before going to the Royal Station Hotel to hand over the rail travel prizes.

Mrs Barbara Semmens, County Commissioner for North Yorkshire South, said: We were delighted to help British Rail sell the very popular and very useful Family Railcard. It was also a marvellous community effort because the girls were able to help others as well as themselves. The visit of The Chief Commissioner is a tribute to the efforts of the Guides and Brownies in the towns and villages of this County.'

To play the 'Family Rail Game', the Guides and Brownies had each to raise £1 by some form of service to the community. Some of them knitted blankets for old people's homes, some made draught excluders, and others helped by performing general household and gardening duties. Several organised coffee mornings, cake stalls or jumble sales, while others used their pocket money or took part in sponsored knits and skips. One Guide Unit raised a substantial sum from commission from a kitchenware house party and some Brownies raised cash by selling Easter baskets in a department store.

The Guides and Brownies building fund, launched last year, now stands at £4,000.

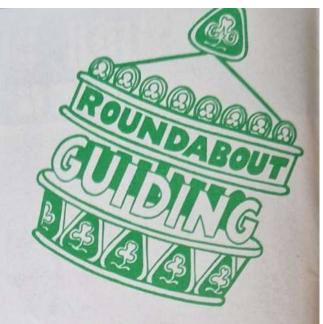

Colourful!

Seen here are Colour Parties at the Annual Jewish Thinking Day Service held on Sunday 13 February in Crosshill Synagogue, Glasgow. The County Commissioner for Glasgow was there along with all the Division Commissioners as well as Mrs Naomi Benson, Chairman of the Jewish Guide Advisory Council. Several Units took part and the Guides, Brownies and Scouts participated throughout the service.

Tribute Abroad

World Fare

Beauclerk District (Fylde South) Guides and Brownies held a 'fare round the world' to celebrate WAGGGS Week 1982. The photograph shows a group of Guides and Brownies dressed in uniform and national costumes from around the world.

A country was chosen by each Unit and they put on a display and provided food for tasting from each country represented. The Guides and Brownies then had a quiz to complete about the countries they had 'visited' and the evening was successfully rounded off with a camp fire.

Mrs Pamela Brooking, County Commissioner for British Guides in Germany, is seen here presenting tokens of appreciation to Lady Margaret Kennedy, wife of the CinC RAF Germany and CO President of the Movement there, who left Germany in April.

Guide Commissioners in British Forces Germany were assembled in Rheindahlen, for a study session with the Guide Association's Programme and Training Adviser from the United Kingdom, and the opportunity was taken to pay tribute to Lady Kennedy's efforts in promoting and supporting Guiding in Germany. Presidency is an honorary position which falls to the wives of Commanders in Chief.

Ravenous Revels

Ripley District Brownie Revels was the occasion for this feast! Guides Susan Riley and Katherine Lawrence, both members of the 1st Ripley Company, are enjoying their own tea after serving a hungry Brownie Pack with sausage and baked beans. The Revels took place at Amberley Farm, Pentrich, Derbyshire and an excellent time was had by all.

Arts to see '83

This photograph was taken at South West Region's 'Arts to see '83' at Bournemouth School for Girls in February.

The day was very successful and Brownies, Guides and Rangers took part in many varied classes of singing, dancing and mime. Many countries were depicted and the costumes were very realistic and colourful. Displays of Home Arts and Crafts showed an exceptionally high standard. Selected groups and items were shown again in Salisbury Cathedral in May

New Guide HQ

One of the earliest Guide Trainers, Phyllis Stewart Brown, Red and Green Cord Diploma'd Guider and Chairman of Training for the Guide International Service, was remembered proudly by the Gerrards Cross Guides at the opening of their new Guide Headquarters in March, 1983. When Phyllis was a very young Guider, her father gave her a plot of building land in the centre of Gerrards Cross, on which in 1920, a Guide Hut was built.

After life-long service to the Guide Movement, Phyllis died in 1980 and she left the land to the Guides. In 1981 it became evident that the hut needed replacing. In the meantime, the road had been developed with multi-storey blocks of offices and shops and the land was extremely valuable. In spite of tempting offers for it, the Guides were determined to keep Miss Stewart Brown's gift. After many moneyraising events and generous grants from Bucks County Council and the Gerrards Cross Parish Council, they now have a system-built Banbury building with a brick façade, which by its excellent proportions, holds its own amidst its towering neighbours.

Views

This is the first time I have ever written to a magazine but I feel so strongly about the proposed new syllabus for Guides who want to work for their Queens Guide Badge that I just have to write.

We have a fantastic Guide Company and we have had 29 Queen's Guides since I started the Company in 1968. The Company had been suspended for over a year through a lack of enthusiasm. Now we have keen, lively Guides; we camp every year and help our church and other people Many Guides enjoy working for their Queen's Guide Badge while they are young and have no commitments (or very few) to school, home work etc. At the suggested age of 16, to start on the new syllabus, girls are usually totally involved in homework and have hardly any spare time. I think that this new idea will just phase the Queen's Guide Certificate T.WILLIAMS right out of Guiding altogether, there will be so few girls to take it on. I enclose some comments from my Guides on the subject.

By the age of 16 I will be doing my 'O' levels or looking for a job.' 'By the age of 16 most girls have left Guides and lost all interest in Guiding'. 'I am a very lucky Guide for I have nearly completed my Queen's Guide syllabus. At the moment I am very busy studying and I am also working on my Commonwealth Badge. This takes up all my time and although I enjoy it, it is very hard work. I really think that it is ridiculous that you aren't (in future) able to do your syllabus until you are 16. This is very wrong because at 16 I know that I will be at college studying for my future career and I know that I wouldn't have any time at all to fit in Guide work'.

Joan Peel (Mrs) Guide Guider 1st Yeadon (St Andrews) Company, Leeds.

Consultation

Whenever we have a Training conference, the need to consult the Guides on every aspect of Guiding and to allow them to make the decisions is stressed over and over again.

Girls are usually totally involved in homework and have hardly any spare time.

Therefore, why are major policy decisions made in secret at top level and handed down to us, the Guiders, to pass on to the girls. For example; new uniform, new Programme, Queen's Guide Award etc.

How does one answer the question posed by the girl 'Why didn't you ask us what we wanted?' This is difficult when we, the Guiders, haven't been asked ourselves. Our own Commissioners and District Commissioners are in no way to blame as, I believe, they are actually forbidden to discuss these matters with us until they are officially released as a 'fait accompli'.

The result of these decisions is not only that the Guides think that their Leaders are either stupid or untruthful, but we are also left with stocks of equipment, ties, handbooks which are out of date and for which we receive no refund.

Ann J Denton (Mrs)
11th St. Clement Company, Jersey.

In 1979 County Commissioners were asked to discuss the Queen's Guide Award within their Counties, and send in their views to Headquarters, and I am sure these will have been discussed in Jersey. I can assure you that consideration was given to every comment and suggestion received.

Time to Change

am writing to complain about the new Guide Badge Syllabus and would like to mention two points which have occurred to me. The first and major point concerns the new age groups. A Brownie going straight on to Guides will have time to gain the Baden-Powell Trefoil Badge but, if a girl joins Guides later on, she will not have had the chance to take the Red Trefoil Badge required for the Baden-Powell Trefoil Badge. second point concerns the two books. Not only will these probably cost more but they will be very awkward to carry. For many Guide meetings you need a lot of equipment and the handbook is a very important part of this equipment. I hope it's not too late to change things.

Jennifer Clifford Patrol Leader 11th Kenton Guide Company Harrow, Middlesex.

A girl who joins Guides later on will be able to begin with the Green or Red Trefoil Badges, depending on her age, and then go on to take the Baden-Powell Trefoil.

The new books will be of a handy size, will not cost more and should not prove awkward to carry.

swap-shop

a comparatively new Brown Owl, I feel that it would be beneficial to be able to contact other Guiders to swap' popular games, handicrafts etc. With this in mind a small group of us have got together who wish to start a Guiders Correspondence Group', which we hope will be of interest to other readers. Approximately six Guiders from different areas will pool ideas. This involves one letter plus one lot of postage every six weeks. We feel that not only Guiders but Brownies would profit from the combined experience.

If any one who is interested in joining this idea would like to write to me c/o GUIDING I would be pleased to fit them into groups.

Lost and Found

Over a period of a few years we have accumulated a wardrobeful of lost property, which includes a complete Guide outfit, several skirts, blouses, pullovers, anoraks, kagoules, toilet bags (one with money in), shoes and so on.

The space these articles occupy is required for more useful purposes and unless claims are made by the end of June, all articles will be taken to the local Oxfam shop. The articles are labelled with date and bedroom and claimants are asked to make a fair description of their belongings.

We will be happy to post articles other than shoes, but would be most grateful if an assessment of possible postage could be made and included with the claim.

If, after the closing date for claims, any local Guider would like to take advantage of second hand Guide skirts/ blouses, please phone first to make enquiries. (See Training Calendar for number).

Libber's Blues

I have just received a new Warrant which has been made out in my husband's name, with 'Mrs' attached to the front. At a recent training we were being encouraged to look at our Programme with the intention of bringing it in to line with the needs of modern girls in a changing society: do we, for instance, introduce traditionally masculine skills like changing a car wheel or a fuse? I am sure that we all want to encourage Guides to be happy, whole people in their own right. Why, then, does Guiding in Britain stick to the outmoded belief that a woman is nothing but an appendage to her husband? I hope that the new changes will take this into consideration and I look forward to hearing more views on this subject.

Necker Please

Now that the Guides have been given a necker can the Guiders be given the option of wearing one too? Please!

I would much prefer a neckerchief to the current ribbon. It could be of the Company colour with woggles to denote warrant, or a certain colour for each warrant. What do other Guldersthink?

Sing along

Hatherieigh and Okehampton — Devon Guides, Brownies, Leaders and friends would like to thank the Alloa District Rangers, Guides and Brownies for providing them with the excuse to organize a most enjoyable event, namely a Marathon Sing Song, lasting 25-% hours. An unforgettable experience!

We took up the challenge after reading about the Scottish. Units in November GUIDER. We made contact with them and received a very helpful letter from the District Commissioner, Mrs Ferguson.

Unfortunately for her and to our delight we broke the 24 hour record. Starting at 5pm on 11 February with a handful of girls singing 'God save the Queen' we continued until 6.45 pm on Saturday, 12 February.

We sang 899 songs, some noisity and some very sleep-

The experience was something we wouldn't have missed for anything, the girls' enthusiasm was incredible, we were not sure who was keeping who going towards the end.

We finished up with 'Peace' in a quiet mood and a few seconds silence before the cheer went up.

Time Waster?

I often wonder how much time some Packs spend on Brownie Work' - challenges their journeys. parations for making their Promise, Ventures and Interest Badges - when I read in your columns the number of fund raising and sponsored events these Packs undertake. Our Pack raises funds for our own funds, National Childrens' Homes through their Sunny Smiles each year, and, for our Christmas Good Turn, we make small gifts for our old People's Hospital With the District, over the past four years, we have helped Blue Peter's Bring and Buy Sales and raised money for our new activities Centre at Coltshall. I feel that this is enough, we should be giving our girls as wide as possible gramme. As regards Badges and awards for Lend A Hand projects, surely this is a very important part of the Brownie Promise and a Brownie should not need further badges for something that she promises to do everyday. Her Promise Badge is her reminder of this

I thought readers may be interested in the photograph above. The dolls have been dressed by myself and belong to my daughter. I designed the pattern and knitted them last year, but, unfortunately, made the wrong Guide tie.

Enthusiasm

Knighton is a small market town sited on Offas Dyke the border between England and Wales. In the past the town has had Brownie, Guide and Ranger Units but these all folded up several years ago as there were no Guiders to run them. In 1981 Joan Parker, the County Commissioner for Radnor launched a new era in Guiding here and now have two Brownie Packs (both full!) and a thriving Guide Company backed an enthusiastic District Association. Enthusiasm is such that it is hoped to start a Ranger Unit soon.

The Brownies have had several fund raising events including a sponsored silence (amazing!). Christmas Bazar, jumble sales and a sponsored run and as a result have been able to donate money to several charities as well as boosting Pack funds.

We are now well into our second year as a District all our Guiders are warranted and the enthusiasm and support remains. Long may it continue!

FORMER MEMBERS

AND THE OLAVE BADEN-POWELL CENTRE

What wonderful support members of the Trefoil Guild are giving to the Olave Centre! But there must be a very large number of former Guides who are not members of the Trefoil Guild.

These are such an important potential source of funds for the Olave Centre that I want to mention them once again. I believe that there must be 100 million former Guides and Girl Scouts throughout the world, many of them 'lost' former members — by which I mean people who are no longer active in the Movement and are not members of the Trefoil Guild. We only have to find one out of every 25 former members who will give £1 (or four who will give £5), and we shall have all the money we need.

Many of them enjoyed their time in the Movement, and would be only too pleased to help build the Olave Centre, if only they knew about it, as a 'thank you' for Guiding, and as a tribute to Olave Baden-Powell. Some will gladly give more than £1.

How can we reach all the former members in the United Kingdom? Most of them will be found by the readers of GUIDING — the Guiders of today — who will be able to think of friends who used to be Guiders or Commissioners, or who were with them when they were Brownies, Guides or Rangers, and of relations and people with whom they Printed below is a simple statement about the Olave Centre which should help when approaching former members and asking for their help. Will you give this plan your backing and think of all the possible ways in which you could use it? If you want more copies of this statement, ask for them, quoting WB 2136, through your County or direct from the World Bureau. Your active support will be much appreciated.

Each One Find Two is the slogan for this particular way of raising money to build the Olave Baden-Powell Centre!

Taxpayers may covenant their donation. Any amount from £1 a year upwards can be covenanted, with great advantages to the Fund (£10 per annum for the minimum period of four years costs the donor a total of £40 and donates £57.20 in order to build the Olave Centre). A special Covenant Form is necessary, obtainable from the World Bureau.

Beryl Cozens-Hardy, Chairman of Fund Raising.

The World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts (WAGGGS) is building a new Centre in Hampstead, London, in order to replace existing out-dated premises. It is named in memory of Olave Baden-Powell, World Chief Guide, who died in 1977.

The first phase is new offices for the World Bureau, the International Secretariat of The WAGGGS; work has begun, and the World Bureau should be in its new home early in 1984. The second phase will be new international residential accommodation, to replace the present Olave House; work on this phase will follow, and will take eighteen months to complete.

Members, former members and their families from the 104 countries which belong to WAGGGS will be able stay at the Olave Centre when they visit London, and it will also be used for training courses, programmes, conferences and seminars. Special facilities are being included for the disabled. Meanwhile, the present Olave House at 45 Longridge Road, London, remains open.

Brownies, Guides, Girl Scouts and Adult Members all over the world are being asked to try to raise £1 sterling each (or equivalent in other currencies) in order to raise the money to build The Olave Baden-Powell Centre. This will be easy for some, but very difficult for others, however hard they try. So your help, as a former member who enjoyed friendship and fun in the Movement, or as a supporter of the Girl Guide/Girl Scout Movement, is needed.

Will you help? If so, please send a donation to:

Brownies and Blue Peter

Knock, Knock — who's there? No joking — it's Blue Peter!

Imagine the thrill of getting a telephone call asking you to appear on 'Blue Peter', Britain's top favourite published by Sparrow.

That's what happened to 14 lucky Brownies whose Packs had submitted jokes for the Brownie Joke Book just children's television show.

There was no time for misgivings. The call went out from the BBC on the Monday and from Northern Ireland, Scotland, Wales and all parts of the country they flocked to London's White Lane Studios for the Thursday

The long journey prevented none of them from enjoying every single minute of the experience, from rehearsals and recordings in the morning to being live 'on air' in the afternoon.

The girls and Guiders alike were surprised by the size of the huge studio - so different to what it looks on screen — and the number of the production crew involved: cameramen, lighting and sound engineers, as well as producers and floor managers, not counting the behind-the-scene team.

So many 'takes' too. Not the fault of the Brownies, who were soon as word perfect as any professional, but because the technical department's 'gongs' at the end of each joke had to be phased in with precise timing.

So much preparation for what seemed so little time on air!

The greatest thrill of all for the girls was meeting Blue Peter's famous trio of presenters: Peter Duncan pictured here sampling one of the jokes, Sarah Greene and Simon Groom who, like everyone else on Blue Peter, made their day so memorable.

THE GIRL GUIDES ASSOCIATION

invites applications for the post of

GENERAL SECRETARY

The Girl Guides Association is one of Britain's largest Youth Organisations with a current membership of approximately 870,000.

The General Secretary is the senior member of staff of the Association and is based in London. The principal duties of the post include the administration of the Headquarters through Heads of Departments, and servicing The Council and The Executive Committee of the Council. The General Secretary is responsible for 200 staff in the Headquarters, Trading Service and Training Centres.

The successful applicant will have proven administrative and managerial skills, and an understanding of voluntary organisations and committee procedures. Membership of the Guide Movement would be a considerable advantage. Applicants should be aged between 40 and 50 years.

The benefits of the post include a salary which is by arrangement according to experience, a contributory pension scheme and five weeks' holiday per annum. The normal retirement age of staff employed by the Association is 60 years.

If you would like to be considered for this challenging post, please apply, giving full career details, to:

The Chairman of the Finance Committee, The Girl Guides Association, 17-19 Buckingham Palace Road, London, SWIW 0PT

Thinking Day In St Lucia

Margaret McHugh

I hinking day (or week - as it was for me), February 1982, was very special this year, as I spent it not in our cold Guide hut in Cowley, Oxford, but on the beautiful, warm, sunny island of St Lucia with my family and some very special Guiding friends.

Miss Sonia George, Commissioner for St Lucia, took me to a Guide meeting near Castries, run by Rosaline Philogene, Commissioner of District Three Northern Area. They had a lovely evening planned for me, with games, songs and dances, a little play, and ice-cold re-

It was delightful to see all the smiling faces that welcomed me, and although a little apprehensive at being the only white person at the meeting, the girls very soon made me feel at home, and indeed, by the end of the meeting had all learnt our Company's favourite camp fire song, 'Kippers', and were performing it beautifully around a make-believe camp fire in the heat of their evening sun!!! I collected many names and addresses of girls wishing to become pen-friends with girls from my Company, and I do hope that at least some of them will stay friends for a long time, as I hope Sonia and I will.

Sonia was very busy preparing for the visit of The Lady Baden-Powell the following week, and also the Thinking Day church parade, which was due to take place the following Sunday; nevertheless, she still found time to bring some of her own Brownie Pack to the airport on the day my family and I were leaving, to wish us well and wave us farewell.

What a beautiful island, and what a wonderful way to spend Thinking week. I know that every February, wherever I am, I shall always remember those smiling, friendly faces in St Lucia, and the true Guiding welcome they gave me.

The Girl Guide Friendship Fund

Help The Branch Associations Grow

After your overwhelming response to the Christmas projects we now turn again to within our own Guiding world for the summer fund-raising appeal. In fact, to the fundamental purpose of the Girl Guide Friendship Fund - to help the Branch Associations.

There are 24 of these, mostly tiny places scattered around the Atlantic, the Pacific and the Caribbean those small islands that can be so difficult to find on the map for Clause 2 of The Commonwealth Badge!

Many of them need our financial help to encourage the growth of Guiding, indeed, to buy such basic things as uniforms, books and badges. For example, handbooks are needed in Tonga, badges and uniforms in Belize and Grenada. In Vanuatu (formerly the New Hebrides) Guiding relies entirely on the girls' contributions — they have no other money source. Blank cassettes are needed in the Pacific area, to be used, for instance, by a Commissioner to 'talk' to her Guiders, who may be 700 miles away.

Among other places that need your help are St Helena, Montserrat, Turks and Caicos Islands and St Kitts.

Far away places with interesting names. But if you were to visit any of the Branch Associations you would find Unit meetings very like your own — Guides using handbooks and following a similar programme, Brownies and Guides often wearing the same uniform and badge that you wear, singing the same camp-fire songs and enjoying very similar activities.

Through the GGFF you can help Guiding in these areas to grow. Our summer appeal runs from 1st June to 30th September, 1983, and we welcome your donations, big or small. Please send chaques or postal orders, made payable to the Girl Guide Friendship Fund, to:

The Girl Guide Friendship Fund. 17-19 Buckingham Palace Road, London SW1W 0PT.

For more information on the Branch Associations please write to the above address, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope.

TODAY'S WORLD

A REPORT ON THE UNIT GUIDERS

The Unit Guiders' Conference 1983 was held at the Froebel Institute College in South West London. 271 delegates were welcomed on Friday evening by Mrs E Burbidge, Chief Comfor Lonmissioner don and South East England, and Miss J Barker, County Commissioner for London South West. Both ladies gave us a thumbnail sketch of Guiding in the area. A group of Welsh Guides then entertained us with dance, singing and narrative depicting activities which today's teenagers enjoy - adventure, sport, discos, holidays abroad, motor bikes and fast food. This was amusingly interspersed with flashbacks to the past. The obvious enthusiasm and enjoyment of the performers made a delightful start to the conference.

After prayers Saturday morning The Lady Baden-Powell welcomed the delegates and, in particular, the overseas visitors and the two members of the Scout Association. She took the opportunity to introduce to the conference her Advisers and Consultants, who take the important decisions affecting us all. To find that those who had hitherto been names on a page, were keen, enthusiastic Guiders, many with Units and problems like ourselves, was most reassuring and an excellent piece of internal 'public relations'.

Mrs Peggy Chermside, Programme and Training Adviser, introduced the changes in the Programme and spoke about the Queen's Guide badge. She traced the history of the badge from its inception in 1946 to the present day and explained the lengthy discussions and careful thought which have taken place before taking the momentous decision to change the syllabus and make it once again a prestigious award for the Ranger and Young Leader, Mrs Chermside outlined the changes in the Guide Section to include the more structured Programme for which many Guiders have asked.

Mrs Jane Lewes, Training Adviser, told us that with the changes it was time to look at our Training Programme. The rôles of many people would become changed and enhanced as they assisted potential Queen's Guide candidates. Not a Guide in the country would be unaffected by the changes, and all Guiders should be encouraged to attend trainings to equip themselves to implement the changed Programme. We were urged to make full use of resource material, to write away for information, but to make sure it was up-to-date.

Mrs Sheila Steele, Programme Adviser, told us that our Programme must be a mixture of traditional B-P Scouting and modern social needs. She described how a speaker Mrs Shella Steele speaking at the conference on Saturday morning.

at a European Seminar had vehemently attacked Scouting being out-of-date and yet at the same Seminar a Swedish Venture Scout had criticised the technology used at a camp-fire, saying that the charm of nature had been driven away. Is there no longer sufficient excitement in a field and a wood for a camp site? What happened to all the exciting activities described in 'Scouting for Boys'? We must be realistic: Guiding is not the answer for all children but it is still a strong influence for good to many girls.

At this point the conference divided into sectional groups under the leadership of the sectional Consultants. The Senior Section discussed the Queen's Guide syllabus and the implications for Rangers, Young Leaders and their Guiders. It was thought that a Unit would benefit, through a widening of experiences, by having a Queen's Guide candidate in their midst.

The delegates in the Guide Section were eager to hear of the Programme changes, and later discussed implications of these changes for themselves and their girls. Miss E Smith, Guide Consultant, stated that the Guide Handbook, published in 1968, had broken with tradition and established a new way of looking at things. The Programme gave the opportunity for girls to work in Patrols and work out relationships in smaller groups, this was a good foundation for adult life. The amended Programme will strengthen the Patrol system and give a basic structure for all Guide Companies. More emphasis on the Guide Promise and the opportunity for Guides to talk to their leaders about their Promise and progress should help our youngsters.

Late on Saturday afternoon we were to be subjected to a session on Unit finance: a daunting prospect! However we were in for a pleasant surprise. First of all, Miss Jean Greenfield from the Trading Service gave a short talk urging us to buy from the Association as the profits of the Trading Service helped to keep down the amount of our subscriptions; a point close to all our hearts! Then after an introduction by Mrs L M Yates, Vice Chairman of the Executive Committee, in which the importance of keeping up-to-date and detailed accounts emphasised, were came the surprise.

Instead of a boring session on Unit Accounts we were given a little light relief with a sketch showing the pitfalls a Guider can fall into through not keeping proper accounts. It was all very humorous and light-hearted but the point was wellmade and will be remembered: a Guider is responsible for the Unit's money.

In the evening many of us took the opportunity as we were in London, to visit the theatre and enjoy an evening out. Those who remained behind entertained themselves singing along with the Music Consultant, Mrs Jane Holmes.

On Sunday morning after an Act of Worship we enjoyed an international bazaar. International crafts, recipes, songs and dance were displayed in the form of a bazaar; Guiders circulated freely trying out whichever ideas appealed to them.

Following this we heard two dynamic speakers, both young Guiders, Miss Alison Fyfe and Mrs Pam Edwards, giving personal views of the adolescent's response to the Programme. Alison questioned the age grouping and suggested that 13-16 year olds might welcome joint meetings and activities with Scouts. She suggested that we ought to publicise our activities in an attempt to redeem the stereotyped label which has been stuck to us for far too long.

The key to Pam talk was Edwards' 'participation'. Referring to the Thompson Report on the Youth Service in England and Wales she suggested that The Girl Guides Association should take an active part in Local Youth Councils. The report suggested that the Youth Service should provide more in terms of political and social education. Pam defined this as meaning 'responsible citizenship' as outlined in the WAGGGS policy document. She suggested that 'service as a citizen' in the new Queen's Guide syllabus was in line with the recommendations of the Thompson report. Greater levels of participation and more effective use of our decision-making structures should be a way forward for the future and highlighted in the Training of our leaders. The conference

Scouts starting with a magnified heart beat, choral speaking and the 'Prayer before Birth'. We followed the development of the 'girl' from 'birth' through childhood and adolescence and noted the pressures upon her. Finally another poem exhorting youngsters to preserve their inner freedoms, ending with the question: 'But how? This is a time of change for the Senior

Section and particularly the Guide Section. We, the Unit Guiders, must seize our opportunities and present our Programme in such a way that the youngsters find it exciting to be a Guide and by taking a full part in our activities, not only develop more fully their individual personalities and abilities, but more importantly, experience the joy of working and playing harmoniously with others.

A group of Welsh Guides entertained the delegates with dance, song and narrative, depicting activities which today's teenagers enjoy.

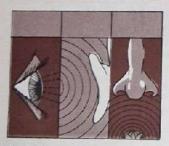

SIZE, SHAPE AND TOUCH

During the lighter, warmer evenings take the opportunity to get out-ofdoors to look at the world around us. Rural Units will need no prompting about where to go, and school grounds, local parks, spinneys and waste ground provide plenty of scope for town Units. Do remember, however, to tell the girls not to wander off on their own, and to stay at least in two's. A

Most of these ideas need few, if any, materials and require very little fore-thought or planning — they are ideal for the unexpected beautiful evening.

Find as many different-shaped natural objects as possible. Here are some shapes you may not have thought of:

- heart triangle straight round mis-shapen crescent zig-zag edge
- pointed pyramid trefoil ???
 Collect as many different-shaped leaves as you can and then grade them in size from the smallest to the largest. How many can you identify? What sort of fruits does the tree bear? What are the wood-burning qualities of the trees? Take some reference books with you to aid identification.
- Find as many 'mini's' as possible: the tiniest insect; the smallest leaf; the tiniest petal; the thinnest stem; the smallest stone; the tiniest feather
- Give each girl a leaf, twig or a flower and ask her to find another one as nearly the same as possible
- Make a list of different textures and find a natural specimen to fit each one: sticky velvet
- polished rough smooth prickly satin Find as many 'superlatives' as you can
- the smoothest leaf, the roughest piece of bark; the knobbliest twig; the strangest-shaped twig; the most velvety petal; the sticklest leaf; the pricklest prickle; the most satiny leaf or piece of bark
- Collect branches, sticks, stones atc which resemble animals, birds and insects and build up a zoo. You may need some labels to aid identification or you can all practise stretching your imagination to its limits!
- Do a 'tree analysis': make a chart showing as many different details of a tree that can be defined by size, shape and touch:
 - fruit outline height of tree bark rubbino texture of leaf tree outline girth of trunk teal outline length of leaf texture of bud

SIGHT, SOUND AND SMELL

- Gather natural specimens of as many different shades of green as possible and arrange them in a row with the lightest at one end and working up to the darkest. Colour charts from your local paint shop can be very useful here: is there a leaf for every shade of green?
- 2. Collect natural specimens to match each of the colours in given pieces of wool or material, in all the colours of the rainbow, or the colours worn by the members of the Six or Patrol.
- 3. How many different colours of soil can you find?
- 4. Paint a picture using only natural colours: fold a leaf roughly in half and rub it on paper until you get the green colour. Each leaf will produce a different shade of green. Experiment with flower petals, pieces of bark etc, until you find the brightest colours. Identify the best leaves and petals and make a colour chart and register for future use
- 5. Set up a Listening Post: make a list of all natural sounds heard within a ten-minute period. Reference books will be useful for birds and insects.
- 6. Walk through a wood and listen for sounds: dead leaves crunching underfoot; leaves or ferns rustling in the wind; raindrops pattering on the leaves; a pine cone dropping; birds singing; a bird's alarm call; gorse pods popping; a stream trickling; the whirr of a bird's wings.
- 7. How many smells can you find? Pine needles; garlic; mosses; ferns. Do all the leaves smell alike when crumbled and held near your nose? Which flower has the strangest scent?

ACTIVITIES OUTDOORS

IDEAS FOR PACK HOLIDAYS

- Make a loosely plaited necklace from three lengths of string or wool. Decorate with leaves or flowers, fixing the stalks into the plaiting.
- Make a miniature garden in a small foil case, empty matchbox or half an orange skin. Put a layer of peat, moss or soil in the bottom and plant flowers, leaves or pine cones etc.
- 3. Have a dandelion 'clock' race. Hold the 'clock' up in the breeze or blow it and see whose fluffy bit goes the farthest before touching the ground.
- 4. Make a Giant's Museum displaying the grandest specimens you can find: the longest blade of grass; the largest leaf; the flower with the most petals; the tallest flower; the bunch with the most berries; the largest feather; the biggest spider; the largest fir cone; the longest worm; the biggest piece of sheep's wool.
- Play Nature Detectives, looking for strange or unusual things, or clues, or reasons why: a dead leaf; a leaf with a hole in it; a flower with more than six petals; moss; a climbing plant; a prickle.
- 6. Find a worm and put it on the ground or a piece of damp wood. Watch it moving and look at the shape of the body. Does the shape change as it crawls? Measure 30 cm and see how long it takes the worm to crawl that far. If you let the worm crawl over your hand what can you feel as it begins to move forward? When you put the worm on some soft ground how long does it take to burrow down and disappear?
- 7. Set a table for tea for two people using only natural objects for your cups and plates etc.

IDEAS FOR CAMP

- 1. Challenge each Patrol to compile a Nature Newspaper written by animal or bird reporters. The headlines could be about an invasion of 'blue humans'. There could be animal, bird or insect 'Family Announcements' columns, good food scavenging tips, a woodland sports page, cartoons, photos and even a crossword. Give each Patrol sheets of lining paper, pencils and crayons and two or three days to complete it. This is an ideal activity for a wet camp.
- 2. Collect and press leaves of different shapes and colours. Use them to make a picture, eg an owl, using the leaves as feathers, acorns for eyes, seeds for the beak and twigs for a perch. Overlap the leaves to make the desired shape and then glue on to card. Press under a heavy weight and then cover with clear polyurethane varnish or clear plastic.
- Design a complete outfit of clothes for a particular occasion, in the colours of nature. Draw your design and collect specimens to show the actual colours used.
- Choose a flower or leaf and design a piece of material suitable for: a. curtains b. a child's dress c. an evening skirt d. a carpet.
- Have a fancy dress parade with all costumes made from natural materials including the string and pins.
- Adopt a tree and record the following things: shape; height, trunk dimensions; types of twigs; bark pattern; holes; colour; insects; birds; arrangement of twigs and leaves; shape of leaves; colour of stalks; veins; flowers, fruit etc.

ARTHRITIS RESEARCH

Arthritis is the greatest cause of disability in the United Kingdom today

The Arthritis and Rheumatism Council is the only national voluntary organization financing research into Rheumatoid Arthritis, Osteoarthrosis, Ankylosing Spondylitis, Juvenile Arthritis and 200 other rheumatic diseases. At a cost of over £3m annually, the Council supports 170 research projects at universities and hospitals throughout the United Kingdom and also provides the main finances of the Kennedy Institute of Rheumatology in London.

Much progress has been made in diagnosis, in treatment and in understanding, and there is now ever hope that the major rheumatic diseases can be conquered.

Please help us to win the battle by advising your clients to remember the Council in their wills: we rely entirely on voluntary support and legacies are our most important source of income. Forms of bequest are available from the address below:

Visit to Bermuda —

a report by Evelyn Eyre, Division Commissioner — West Division, and Sue Thornton-Grimes, CCIA, on their trip to Bermuda last year with the party from Dorset.

Dorset and Bermuda Guides with Bermuda Guiders.

Colours, early morning on Ports Island.

On 27 July, 1982, 30 Guides, Rangers, Young Leaders and Guiders left Heathrow Airport en route for Bermuda. After a seven-hour flight, which included a visit to the flight deck of the Tristar aircraft, we arrived in Bermuda, and were met by the hostess families from all over the island, with whom we were to stay for the first five days. Two of these were public holidays, during which a cricket match is played between St George's Cricket Club and Southampton Cricket Club, this year the match being played on the Southampton ground in the east of the island. Everything stops for this match; shops close, and people who do not go to the match spend their time at home or on one of the many beautiful beaches around the island.

In this first hostess period, many of us were able to sunbathe, go swimming and sightseeing in St George's (the old capital), visit the Crystal Caves, the Dolphin Show, the Perfume Factory and the Pottery. We visited Hamilton (the present capital) with its Birdcage policeman, cruise ships, Government and Senate Houses, familiar ceremonies like 'Beating the Retreat' and the famous Front Street.

On 2 August, we all met up with our hosts, the Bermuda Girl Guides Association, on Allbuoys Point in Hamilton, to catch the boats to Ports Island, where we camped with the Bermudian Guides for 10 days. During our time in camp, we enjoyed activities such as sailing, swimming, snorkelling, canoeing and exploring the island itself, which had been, among other things, a convict camp, yellow fever settlement and a Navy centre during the last war. The graveyard, in which some of the victims of yellow fever are buried, was cleared of weeds and undergrowth by some of the Rangers and Young Leaders as part of their project for the Duke of Edinburgh's Award. Other activities included craft using natural materials, Dorset buttons, camp fires with new and old songs being sung and learned, folk dancing, and an evening spent looking at and learning about the evening sky with a local amateur astronomer.

There were several trips off the Island, too, including a visit to Paget Marsh to see Bermuda's vegetation as it was before man came to the Island, and a visit to the Botanical Gardens and Camden House, the Premier's official residence, where all furniture, doors, panels and windows are made from Bermuda Cedar; this house is now used for receptions and parties given by the Premier. During a trip round the western half of the Island, the party also visited the Aquarium, St George's and St Catherine's Fort.

After our 10-day camp, we returned to the mainland and once again stayed with various local families for the final few days. During this time a Brownie Revels was organised by some of the Dorset girls, who help with Brownie Packs in England, and 40 Bermudian Brownies enjoyed a morning of games and activities. Many of the group went on a trip on a glass-bottomed boat to view the world of the coral reefs and exotic fish. A barbecue was arranged for hostess families and their guests by one of the Local Associations, and the final event was a Parade Service at St Peter's Church in St George's, this church being the oldest active Anglican church in the western hemisphere. Bermudian and Dorset Girl Guides paraded their respective flags and standards, and a number of officials from local youth and Scout groups also attended.

All too soon, the final day arrived, and we boarded our flight for England, having spent a most enjoyable three weeks of Guiding activities, cementing our links with the Bermuda Girl Guides Association, and making friendships that will continue for long years to come. Thanks must go to all those who made the trip possible, and to the Bermuda Girl Guides Association for their hospitality and work in making our stay such an enjoyable one.

Advanced Training For Difficult Country

Enjoyment Of The Hills And Mountains Is A Valuable Part Of Our Outdoor Programme In The Guide Movement by Margaret Staines

Walking Consultant

For safety, Good leadership in the hills is essential — just to lead is not sufficient. Good training and experience in the hills are needed in order to achieve the combination of enjoyment and safety. Leaders must have a love of the countryside, and have experienced the personal joys of walking in the hills. A well prepared group, with trained and experienced leaders, will achieve the best results — that is a safe, happy and contented party. In the hills, it is good for the group to be small. The leader must know the group well and understand the needs of each member.

Many Guiders will not wish to lead young people in the hills, but this should not prevent you from taking part in Advanced training, gaining expertise and confidence, which will help leadership in Medium country. During each stage of the training scheme you will be encouraged to make a realistic assessment of your own ability in each topic, and your leadership skills in the different types of country. In the Advanced training, you will need as much practical experience as possible, so go to the hills at every opportunity, with as many different individuals and groups as possible. In our County, we have formed a Walking Club called CLODS (County of Leeds Out of Doors). On reaching Intermediate standard, Guiders are invited to join the club, and take part in a programme of day walks and a weekend. This provides Guiders with practical walking experience, and the additional opportunity of working with other Guiders with similar interests.

The Walking Safely Training Scheme can provide you with the training necessary as preparation for the MLTB Awards. In the latter stages of Advanced Training it is advisable to get experience in a variety of areas, and it is often the time to look outside the Guide Movement for additional experience.

News for Rangers and Young Leaders

Young Leaders' Week Glenbrook 20th-27th August

If you are working on the Young Leaders' Scheme, then come to Glenbrook for a week in August. You will live and work with other Young Leaders with similar aims and outlook, and the course will give you opportunities to challenge yourself and to get help and ideas for your work with the Packs and Companies you help. It should be fun. Apply to the Guider-in-Charge, Glenbrook, Bamford, Nr Sheffield, S30 2AL.

Expedition Training (Rangers only)

Glenbrook 20th-27th August

Come and join in a fun, fit and friendly week at Glenbrook, and take part in training for the Expedition Section of the Duke of Edinburgh's Gold Award. There will be opportunities to gain skills in mapping compass work, lightweight camping etc, and it is hoped to arrange a practice expedition. Apply to the Guider-in-Charge, Glenbrook, Bamford, Nr Sheffield, S30 2AL.

Duke of Edinburgh's Gold Award Course Foxlease (Girls only) 25th-29th August

A residential course over the August Bank Holiday weekend for the Gold Duke of Edinburgh's Award, open to girls from any Operating Authority. Apply to the Guider-in-Charge for details.

Young Leaders

The Young Leaders' Series by Anne Bloomer is to be extended for a further two months, thus making it an eight-part series. You can read Part Six in this issue on pages 37 and 38. The author would be interested to know your reaction to her series. PROGRAMME

General Training

Unless these weekends are marked especially for Guiders of one Section a General Training weekend is for both Brownie and Guide Guiders, new and experienced. The aim of the training is to give you practical help with running your Unit and carrying out the Programme for the Section with which you are working. Your application form invites you to list the things on which you would like help, so please make use of this opportunity and return the form quickly so that the trainers can include as many as possible of your requests when planning the programme.

A 'General Training' weekend is the most suitable training for new

Making the Most of the District

Foxlease — 1st-3rd July, 9th-11th September, 21st-23rd October Waddow — 15th-17th July, 2nd-4th December

These weekends are intended to help the District as a whole and aim to give each group a chance to work together, and discover the support members of a District can give each other in working as a team. For Guiders there is help in understanding the unity of the Programme across the Sections and other matters of common concern (the Promise, self-programming, working in groups) and time is set aside for points which relate particularly to the Commissioner's role, both as leader and representative of her District, and what training in the District involves.

Although this is not the most suitable weekend for very new Guiders, Commissioners are invited to bring a group of Guiders of all levels of experience and all Sections. If your District has no Ranger Unit perhaps the Ranger Guider of the Unit which serves your District could be asked to join you?

Walking Safely (Basic and Intermediate)

Glenbrook - 15th-17th July

Many Guiders, experienced or new to the job, may have become interested in the Walking Safely Training Scheme which is for everyone — whether you live in a rural area or an inner-city one. Preparations and training are needed whether you and your Pack or Company go out for a day in the country, or to a city for a day's exploring!

As an 'extra' to the help you will receive in areas near your home Glenbrook offers you the opportunity to take part in training, at YOUR level of experience, combined with the hospitality of the house and the companionship of other Guiders from all parts of the UK.

District Commissioners and District Assistants

Foxlease - 10th-12th June

This weekend will explore another aspect of the many 'partnerships' in Guiding — the work of the District Commissioner and the support she needs from her team of helpers 'to enable the affairs of the District to prosper' (Commissioner's Handbook).

This weekend will give everyone an opportunity to share experiences, to compare notes with other Commissioners and District Assistants and to see their respective jobs in the perspective of the District as a whole

While there would be great benefit from a Commissioner and her Assistant coming together, any District Commissioner and any District Assistants will be very welcome.

Walking Safely Training Scheme

Glenbrook - 14th-16th October

This weekend is by allocation and all Countries and Regions are being invited to take up three places. For further details contact your Outdoor Activities Adviser.

Family Week

Foxlease — 27th May-3rd/4th June, 27th July-3rd August

For those who really find it dirficult to arrange to get away to a residential training, this is a pleasant mixture of training, and time with your family. Husbands, and children aged two to eight years, are welcome

There will be training sessions in the morning, while husbands take care of the children, but the afternoon will be free for family activities; there will also be some optional activities and sessions for those who wish to join them. Write to the Guider-in-Charge, Foxlease.

Ranger Guiders

Waddow — 2nd-4th September Foxlease — 25th-27th November

These weekends offer Ranger Guiders an opportunity to train together as a separate group and to find help with the many (and new) aspects of the job. Why not get together with other Ranger Guiders in your County and come as a group? The more, the merrier.

Holiday Week

Foxlease — 17th-23rd August Waddow — 6th-13th August

This is a golden opportunity for Guiders wishing to take up to nine Guides or Rangers for a holiday at Foxlease or Waddow. Planning your programme during the holiday will be entirely your, or your girls' responsibility.

At Foxlease you can enjoy the forest and the seashore. At Waddow you could walk over the hills, explore the Witch country and many fascinating villages, visit abbeys, castles and Roman remains, go bird watching or fossil hunting by the river, or follow nature trails. Guiders will be present to comply with POR, but this could be used as an experience towards your Holiday Licence. However, you need the consent of your Commissioner before applying. For details write to the Guider-in-Charge at Foxlease or Waddow.

International Weekend (CCIAs and Trainers)

Waddow - 8th-10th July

The purpose of this weekend is to help CCIAs and Trainers to see their joint responsibility in encouraging and developing exciting international aspects of Guiding for both Guiders and girls of all sections.

Canoeing (Training and Assessment)

Glenbrook — 23rd-25th September

For Guiders and Rangers. These weekends are for those who have some experience and would like further help towards gaining a canoeing qualification.

Caving and Rock Climbing

Glenbrook - 11th-13th November

Open to both Guiders and Rangers, the weekend offers an opportunity to try something new, or to gain further experience. For those who wish there is also pony trekking as an optional extra.

Music in the Guiding Programme

Foxlease - 2nd-4th December

This weekend is intended for Guiders who would like help with the Music in the Pack and Campfire Leader's Certificates, and also for Guiders wishing to extend their song repertoire and to increase their music skills.

Arts Training (Music, Dance and Drama)

Waddow - 18th-20th November

The aim of this weekend is to help those who want to arouse enthusiasm in Guiders to make Music. Dance and Drama integral parts of their Unit programme. It is intended primarily for County Arts Advisers, their Assistants and prospective Registered Experts. The accent will be on the active pleasure to be derived from Arts activities and the need to give Guiders confidence. There will be specialist and general sessions. (Craft is only omitted because of the Training at Alnwick in October.)

HOW TO APPLY TO A TRAINING CENTRE

Any Guider may herself apply to attend a training course at the Centres, provided she has reached the age of 18 years. (At the discretion of the Commissioner a member aged 171/2 who is working on the Adult Leader's Certificate may also apply for a Guider course).

An application to attend a Guider Training Centre should be sent direct to the appropriate Guider-in-Charge, and must be accompanied by the correct amount of deposit and a SAE. Applicants should also state the type of training for which they are attending, as there may be several different courses running at any one weekend. As many Guiders have to leave on Sunday, training sessions at a two-day week-end will stop at teatime on that day unless otherwise stated. If sufficient notice is given that it is wanted, every effort will be made to provide for a group until Monday. Individuals able to stay over until Monday to enjoy the surrounding country and other amenities of the Centre are welcome to do so.

BURSARY HELP AVAILABLE

For full details of how to apply, and who is eligible for Bursaries, District Commissioners should write to the Training Secretary, C.H.O. (Scottish Commissioners should apply to Scottish Headquarters). Applications must reach C.H.O. at least two weeks before the date of the Training. Bursaries cannot be issued in retrospect.

The Fee Bursary entitles the Guider to £3.00 for a two-day weekend and £1 for each additional day. This is deducted from the fees at the Training Centre.

The Fare Bursary (available only for travel to the nearest Training Centre) carries a rebate of a Guider's travel expenses in excess of £3.00. This is paid at the Training Centre.

Note: These cannot be issued for Regional Weekends at the Training Centres or for courses at Glenbrook

The CHQ Training Centres Bursary entitles Guiders to two-thirds of the fee for a two-day weekend training at Foxlease. Waddow and Glenbrook. The bursary is deducted from the fees at the Centre.

The Angela Thompson Bursary is available to any Guider attending a Promise and Law similar Training (not necessarily at a Training Centre)

The Outdoor Activities Bursary is worth up to £30.00 for Guiders attending training/assessment courses to achieve National qualifications. Applications to County/Region Headquarters.

Grab the Chance-

Make the most of your District

s belonging to your District a bit like being a member of your own family? Do you feel the other members of the District are your friends to whom you can turn when things aren't going so well in your Unit? Is your District supporting you and sometimes even propping you up? Are they a sounding board and a group who give you the opportunity to really let your feelings be known? It may not change the Movement, but you'll feel better for airing your feelings afterwards!

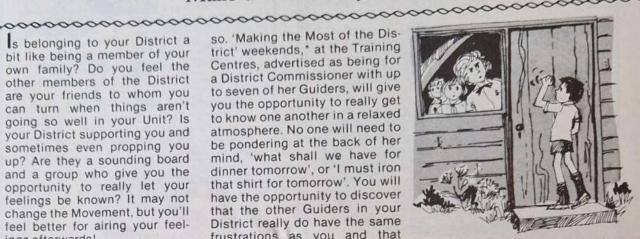

Could someone in your District stand in for you on the night you can't get to your meeting because your husband is expecting you to be with him? As many of us these days seem to be working single-handed, more than anything else we need someone to discuss our meetings with - those small successes, and steps in the right direction as well as the problems. Ever had that feeling that there are just no more ideas for new games that work, quick and easy crafts for that next Fair, or quick 'Be Prepared' items up your sleeve to pop into your next meeting?

The opportunity to really get to know one another in your Districts needs to be taken but it is not always very easy. Some Districts are able to get together for social occasions, but for most busy Guiders, District meetings need to be kept as short as posisible, and the social chit-chat kept to a minimum so those who need to get home are able to do so. 'Making the Most of the District' weekends,* at the Training Centres, advertised as being for a District Commissioner with up to seven of her Guiders, will give you the opportunity to really get to know one another in a relaxed atmosphere. No one will need to be pondering at the back of her mind, 'what shall we have for dinner tomorrow', or 'I must iron that shirt for tomorrow'. You will have the opportunity to discover that the other Guiders in your District really do have the same frustrations as you and that possibly there is someone who is good at outdoor activities and someone who has a mother who is willing to do flower arranging with a small number of girls. The list of useful things you'll discover is endless - and that's from just among yourselves!

Before the weekend you may well hear from the trainers who will be taking your weekend, and they may give you some indication of the programme for the weekend, and of anything they may want you to take with you or do beforehand. Obviously you will not be able to take everyone from your District, but do try to include at least some Guiders from each Section if at all possible. It is important to remember on your return home too that not everyone was able to go you will need to think how to share' the weekend on your

On arrival (and one of the nice things about these weekends is the opportunity to be able to travel together) you will be shown to your rooms, sharing with others in your District if you wish. The house groups for doing light jobs around the house during the weekend are usually District based. This means you will be free at the same times. These weekends have little Section training as such: there is often one session, and two at the most, where you are given the opportunity to air your particular 'Section' problem. Therefore on the training team there will always be a Brownie and Guide Trainer, and wherever possible a Ranger Trainer, who will be able to help with your specific 'Sectional' queries. If your query doesn't come up during a session or it has come up since sending in your blue form (don't forget to use this opportunity to request things you would like included), make a beeline to sit next to your trainer at a meal time, and, whatever happens, don't go home without at least giving your problem an airing — you won't forgive yourself if you don't! Included in this type of weekend is an opportunity to understand how the Programme and the skills incorporated in it develop Brownies from to Guides to Rangers, and in particular how this helps the individuals in your particular

Other Guiders in the District have the same

Our big Volvo coaches, with reclining seats and video. make easy work of the 500-mile journey, leaving from London each evening, and arriving the next afternoon. The homeward journey commences in the morning and arrives home the following morning. The precise destination varies but is never more than a few miles from Adelboden or intertaken, and all coaches pass through Basie and Bern.

The service is intended primarily for groups staying in our own chalets (ask for our brochure if you'd like details) but inevitably we don't have every coach full and rather than waste spare seats remaining we offer them to members of the Scout and Guide Movements, their families and friends for just £44.50 return (under 16s £39.50).

With a few exceptions there are not normally more than 10 seats available on any one date, so we can't usually take large groups at these terms. But for family groups, venture units, or other small parties, here is a great opportunity to visit the superblakes and mountains of Switzerland at an incredibly low price.

No accommodation is offered so you must arrange your own guest-house, hotel, or youth hostel booking, or perhaps take your own lightweight camping gear. We'll give you the addresses to write to Take advantage of this super opportunity - send the coupon below for full details.

Grab the Chance

District. Self-programming plays a greater part in the Programme as the girl gets older, and your District will be given the opportunity to see how District events can be used to encourage rather than, as sometimes happens, cut across this. Hopefully you will be given the opportunity to think about how this happens and what you can do together as a team to encourage the other 'teams' at all age levels in your District.

Often Districts have time to plan an event (which indeed we hope may well take place) and you may be asked beforehand to have given this some thought or to have asked the Guiders or girls in the District at home for any ideas they may have. It has been a pleasure in the past to be invited to subsequent events planned during one of these

These weekends can be ideal in helping you as an adult to think about exactly what your Promise means to you today, and to consider if you are growing in your faith, or are, at the moment, at a bit of a stand-still, or perhaps even for some reason slipping backwards. To have understanding friends to talk to about this - perhaps sparked off by something someone has said during a session, out on a stroll or over the washing-up can be most helpful. District Commissioners will be given the opportunity to understand their rôles as leader and representative of the District. They will be given help to recognise if Guiding as such is taking place in the Units in the District, or if in fact they are a series of youth clubs. Advice is also given on how they can help with further training for their Guiders. Obviously, the flavour of your weekend will vary according to the training team - as indeed the flavour of each District at the weekend will vary. Get to know the other Districts - pick their brains as to what District events they have, how they try to give every girl in the District the opportunity to have at least one night away a year; how they manage with transport problems in the country, or walking home problems in the city, and how we all manage with fewer adults than we should like.

Your training team may help you work together as a District over the weekend by having a special international evening, a 'getting on with people' ploy, or possibly an adventurous wide game or an expedition (walk?!) to get you all 'Walking Safely' you never know. Obviously it depends on the skills of the trainers, as indeed it does in your District, but you can rest assured that at the end of the weekend you will go home feeling more 'family' - knowing a little better what makes each member of your team 'tick' and how you can continue to work together to benefit each and every girl in your District.

'Development of a skill.'

I hope that by the end of these weekends you will all go home as 'Good Fruit Salad':

Quote 'A Japanese husband stood with his wife and their son and daughter on the platform at a meeting. In his staccato Japanese-style English he said: "I am father. I am like coconut. You know coconut? Hard outside - soft inside. This is mother. She is like peach. You know peach? Soft and lovely outside - hard inside. This is son. He is like banana. You know banana? Soft outside, soft inside, not straight and very slippery. This is daughter. She is like Chestnut. Prickly outside and she explodes when heated.

But now we are all changed. We make good fruit salad."

Helen Ryan

* After January 1984 'Making the Most of the District' weekends will be advertised in GUIDING magazine under the new name: 'The District Team'.

'The opportunity to travel together.'

HAVE YOU ARRANGED YOUR SUMMER HOLIDAY?

WILL YOU BE GOING TO THE SEASIDE, CAMPING IN THE COUNTRY OR EVEN ABROAD THIS YEAR?

Whatever you have planned, please give a thought to some of the many children in the Fund's care who, only with its financial help, will be able to enjoy a holiday (possibly their last) this year.

YOU KNOW YOUR HOLIDAY COSTS MONEY!

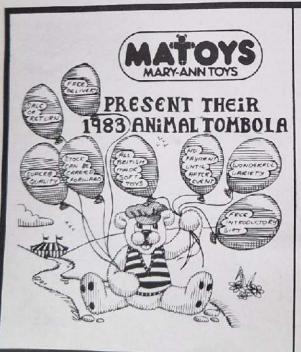

So too do the holidays the Fund provides for young sufferers of cancer, leukaemia or Hodgkins's disease and their families.

PLEASE HELP a child to have a holiday this year by sending a donation, which will be gratefully acknowledged, to:

Solution to Double Acrostic No 60

By God, man, Irvine broke out. 'Where have you been? Do you know in what days we live, when the whole of the North is out against Her Majesty?' 'I am perfectly aware of it,' Nicholas said, coming a little closer. 'Nevertheless, it was the man's right to have a trial.' Irvine's temper was now up.

TODAY'S GUIDE - July Review

July's FODAY'S GUIDE continues with the theme Open Air and Enjoying the Out-of-doors. The Interest Badges Mapreader, Woodman, Stalker and Hiker continue, and the DIY scheme challenges the Guides to clean windows. Two double page spreads appear in this issue in line with the theme 'Pack ing a Rucksack' and 'Britain's Colourful Coastline'. The story for the month is 'Cancelled Camp for the Canaries'. For general interest the Guides can read about the 'History of Earrings' and 'The Passport Story', and they can read about the latest news in the music and book world, solve puzzles and learn how to make the best of themselves with the help of the 'Growing Up is Fun' article. This month concentrates on suntan lotions, new make-up and fragrances. 'Guiding Round The World' has more interesting things from Overseas, and for the Patrol Leaders the PL activity pages suggest things to attempt within the Patrol. For the Pack Leader ideas are given for organising sports events in the Brownie Pack and activities for the light evenings out-of-doors

BROWNIE — July Review

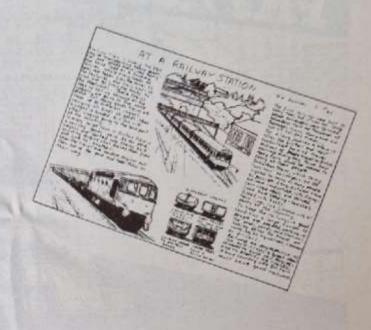

The new Brownie Badge, Conservation, begins this month, and each week the Brownies are shown, in detail, and with plenty of information, how to go about gaining it. Handcrafts include things to make while on Pack Holiday, 'A Sea Shell Treasure Chest' and 'A Floating Lighthouse' for those visiting the seaside. Also included are 'A Fold-over House' and a 'Climbing Plant Trainer'. Materials to start collecting are corks different sizes, washing-up bottle tops, polystyrene, garden and basketry cane. The story this month is 'I Don't Want to Take Badges' - How many have Brownies who say this? Maybe it will be a good story for the Brownie meeting. There are two cover games — 'Up, Up and Away' and 'Monkey Business'. If you want some extra activities for rainy days on Pack Holiday these are worth collecting. The Help at Home charts are helpful for Brownies of all ages, and well illustrated; this month they show Brownies 'How to Wash Socks' (House Orderly), and 'Making A Holiday Check List' can help with preparing to go away. You can link this with Pack Holiday and the Road Badge packing a suitcase. Centrespreads this month include 'See How Clever Plants Are' and a 'Trip To The Railway Station'. Throughout the month general interest articles appear, and one especially comes from Terry Mills on animals seen around Chichester, the Isle of Wight, and the surrounding beaches. Also included each week are puzzle pages, painting competitions. Ventures and Rainbow Corner, so don't forget to remind your Brownies to order their own copy.

TODAY'S GUIDE — How to help your Patrols to use their Patrol Pages — Preparing For A Long Journey

by Coral Tomlin

The Patrol 'Have a Shot at . . .' next month will be preparing for long journeys the Patrols may undertake during the summer holidays. In case you need some ideas to give the Guides, especially the Patrol who can think no further than noughts and crosses, here are a few ideas.

Pub signs are a useful source of material for car games, either playing 'legs', in which the number of legs suggested on the sign are added together, ie The Dun Cow scores four, The Golden Eagle two, and The Plough scoring nothing, or noting how many times Pub names appear and making a list of the unusual ones.

The Ladybird Book of 'Car Games' has some good ideas which can be adapted. Other useful games to suggest are: I Spy, 20 Questions, What's My Line?, Give Us A Clue, Battleships and Hangman. Please remind Guides that all these have to be played while seated, and that the driver must not be distracted from driving.

Have you tried singing on the coach in an alphabetical order, one song for each letter? What about a theme singing session, including songs from the Top Twenty! This exercise may involve the Patrol in learning a few new songs ready for the journey to fill in the gaps—who will be the first Patrol to sing the song starting with X?

In the Patrol Pages, there is a suggestion that each member makes an Emergency bag to take on the journey. For those who have not dealt with children on the move before, I offer the following suggestions:

Safety pins, wipes, Cologne sticks for freshness in a stuffy car, tissues, Barley sugars, plasters and insect repellent for food stops. A few sheets of toilet tissue for those country conveniences, and a largish polybag of the strong variety, hidden in a substantial paper bag—for obvious reasons. A small bottle of water and a cup (why not make an aluminium foil one, directions were given in January GUIDING) are also useful. Remember to replace the water for each journey, as stale water is quite revolting.

These are a few starters, you will, of course, have your own ideas and so will the Guides. Encourage them to consult their local library for other suitable material and to share their best ideas in the Unit.

Try and have a Holiday Evening early in September when you start the new term and exchange experiences. Why not write and share these experiences with other readers?

Happy journeys.

Opportunities at Home or Overseas

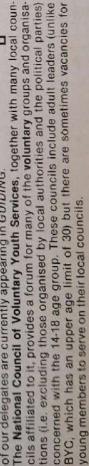

Every year there are many opportunities for Young Leaders to take part in events or special interest groups overseas or in other parts of the United Kingdom. Those or special interest groups overseas or in other parts of the United Kingdom. Those dure beforehand, but you should not let that deter you from trying. The selectors are not looking for Superwoman but for someone who can talk in an interesting way well with the other participants and who will benefit from and contribute to the opportunity. Each County has its own way of circulating details of these opportunities, which often arise at very short notice. You may read about them in a County bulletin or newsletter, see them in the pages of GUIDING, or be shown details by your Commissioner, or an Adviser.

County Commonwealth & International Advisers can tell you about the overseas opportunities, and how any selections are arranged in your County. There may be occasions each year when those who are interested in these events have a chance to meet and learn of some possibilities.

The Junior Council of the Association consists of Rangers, Young Leaders and young Guiders, half of whom retire every two years. The vacancies are filled by Countries/Regions who select their delegates on the Council not as representatives of their area but as people who can represent the interests and concerns of their age-group. There are also Junior Councils in several Countries/Regions within the United Kingdom and experience gained through membership of these has often proved invaluable for many aspects of life outside Guiding. Your Commissioner or County Young Leader Adviser can help you find out about any of these opportunities.

The British Youth Council has delegates from a very wide variety of groups involving young people. There is a delegation of nine members of the GGA, who meet alongside members of church groups, youth clubs and organisations, Young Farmers', students, party political groups and local youth councils. Articles about the work of our delegates are currently appearing in GUIDING.

This completes the sixth part of the series for Young Leaders, but there will be two additional instalments, each with distinct themes, but related to this series: a much more general look at various aspects of leadership, and then a look at the rôles played by adults within the Young Leader's Scheme. The series will shortly be re-printed in booklet form; any suggestions for changes or additions to be incorporated at this stage will be welcomed.

(2) cont. Think for Yourself

Some examples of topics are given on the Young Leader card, others include: Provision of Facilities in Your Area — youth clubs, sports clubs. Is it good? If so, why? If not, how could the area be improved? What about the cost and who pays for things? Should the money be spent on a children's playground or old people's centre? Similarly for pre-school play groups, local shops etc.

Changing Scenes in Your Town — do the new buildings fit in with their surroundings? So much money was spent preserving that old church but was it money well spent? Are there too few car parks or too many, should one be grassed over as a green space?

Political Parties have different plans for what they would do if elected. In another year or two you will have a vote to use. Which set of plans do you prefer for the future development of your area? Why do you prefer these to the others? Are they from the same party whose policy you like for the local schools, or the roads and the bus services? If not, how will you decide which way to use your vote?

The Choice is Yours — Nuclear Power, Aid to the Third World, Modern Poetry & Drama, Advertising, Convenience Foods... Etc Etc.

(3) Improve your Skill: Learn a skill that is new to you or extend an existing skill.

Here you must choose which of the Eight Points are included, since they are all possible, and many combinations of two or more. If this clause does not stretch your capabilities in any way — then your choice was too easy! Will you join a group of Rangers working on a project, an interest group for the Duke of Edinburgh Award Scheme, an evening class, a local club or society or seek a chance to go away and climb mountains or ski down them?

(4) Accept a Challenge: Plan and carry out an overnight expedition with two friends for a particular purpose.

Or Carry out an atternative expedition giving equal opportunity for adventure, enjoyment and resourcefulness.

First decide with whom you will share this challenge, then choose your purpose. That must be done before you can plan how to carry it out: is it to be a shopping expedition to London or Liverpool, followed by seeing the sights, a cycle ride to rub brasses in several churches, a dawn assault upon your local mountain or afloat on the river, a theatre visit to Stratford, staying at a youth hostel nearby, a country ramble to practise photography or a fitness challenge such as an orienteering compelition?

Your plans should include maps, equipment, food, timetables, special needs related to the object of your expedition, safety considerations. The latter are vital for everyone else's peace of mind whilst you are away, and they may be crucial for your enjoyment of the expedition. Consult your Commissioner in good time about your plans and, if specialist help is needed for any aspect of your plans, she can point you in the right direction for that. Reep a log book of your project — to include the facts, your thoughts about it (both there and then and on reflection afterwards), quick sketches and/or photographs. You could even write a brief report and send it to GUIDING in the hope of seeing your name in print.

Looking Wider

So far in this series, we have focused upon the specific challenges which form the basis of the Young Leader's Scheme. Let us turn now to consider some other targets which you may choose to reach, and some openings for which you may be eligible, through your membership of The Girl Guides Association:

The Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme:

As a Young Leader you are probably the sort of person who enjoys taking some responsibility and following a variety of different interests and activities. If, for example, you play a musical instrument, help with Brownies and take some regular exercise, then you are already fulfilling three of the four requirements for the Duke of Edinburgh's Award.

This Scheme is designed for those between the ages of 14 and 25 years and is operated through youth clubs, schools, places of work and youth organisations, thus including both the Girl Guides and the Scout Associations. The aims are to encourage and stimulate the energies and enthusiasms of young people through a challenging programme of activities. The Award, which is widely recognised throughout the country, has three levels — Bronze, Silver and Gold — and for each of these the participant has to complete the requirements in four sections: Service, Expedition, Skills and Physical Recreation. For the Gold Award, there is an additional section requiring a residential qualification. If you are old enough, you may enter the Scheme directly for the Silver (age 15) or Gold (age 16) Awards.

mum possible time but to be enjoyed over a longer period. Thus you should not be deterred by the fact that there are now so many other demands upon your time, with exams possibly always around the corner. You can enter the Scheme at any time before your 23rd birthday, although most participants start the Silver and Gold Awards at age 16 or 17. Successful completion of the Young Leader's Scheme fulfills the Service requirement for the Gold Award, and completion of certain clauses of the Young Leader's Scheme fulfills the requirement for the Silver Award — but you can only count your training as a Young Leader once and you must be registered with the D of E Award Scheme before commencing any of the activities which you wish to count towards an Award.

If you are interested in finding out more about the Scheme, consult the Guider who is Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme Adviser within your Guiding County. If you do not know who that is, then ask your Commissioner or Young Leader Adviser to help you find out

The Queen's Guide: (after 1st September 1983):

The new syllabus for this was printed in GUIDING (March 1983) from which you will have seen that the challenges completed for the Queen's Guide Award will represent a very considerable achievement. Before starting to work towards this goal, you must be recommended for it by your Ranger Unit if you are a Ranger, or otherwise by your Young Leader Group and Brownie/Guide Guider. This Group may be within a District, a Division or any appropriate area, depending upon how many Young Leaders there are within your County, so as to have between 10-20 Young Leaders in each Guidelines and notes about the new syllabus, which is open equally to Rangers and Young Leaders, are now in preparation and so it would be premature to say anything further here. If you are interested in this challenge, you could start talking about it within your Young Leader Group now and planning what you might wish to do, but you must realise that your Young Leader Adviser will not have any new supporting material or resources to help you until after the Summer holidays and that you cannot start on the syllabus itself before September.

If you wish to aim towards both the Queen's Guide and the Duke of Edinburgh's Awards, you will find that several of your activities can fit into both syllabuses — but this will need very careful planning beforehand to ensure that the two different sets of requirements are both met in full.

Special Interest Certificates:

These can be obtained in a wide variety of subjects, of which the most popular ones, and those most generally useful within the context of Guiding activities are: Ranger/Young Leader Camp Permit: This will enable you to take charge of a small camp for Rangers/Young Leaders or for Guides of the Company with which you are working. Full details are in the booklet Notes on Camps & Holidays (1980).

Boating Permits: for rowing, canoeing, sailing — racing or cruising. There are many different permits for different types of boat, levels of expertise and difficulty of the area of water concerned. Full details are in the booklet Notes on Boating & Holidays Afloat (1982), which shows the correspondence between the qualifications of the recognised bodies, the BCU for canoeing and the RYA for sailing, with the Association's own Charge Permits.

Hill-Walker Certificate: This will show your knowledge and experience of walking in open country and provide a good foundation for the adult qualifications of the Mountain Leader Training Board or the three progressive stages of the Association's Walking Safely Scheme. There is a separate booklet about this scheme and the syllabus for the certificate is in the Ranger Handbook.

Life Saver Certificate: If you are aged 17 or over, hold this certificate (details in POR) and keep it up-to-date regularly, you could be in great demand as a life-saver for many camps and holl-days.

First Aid Certificates: The adult certificate, available to those aged 16 or over, from one of the nationally recognised societies requires a thorough knowledge of first aid and what you aged 18 or over and it includes some basic nursing and knowledge of common childhood all.

OVERSES IN A REPORT OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PRO

A Visit to Denmark— by Frances Parrett, Leader SW England Party July 1982

party of small twelve; ten Guides and Rangers and two Leaders was the delegation from SW Region of England to Denmark's YWCA National Camp which was held in a small village called Englerupgard near Ringsted. The village was totally swamped by the invasion of Danish 'spejderes' there were 10,000 campers on a site that could be measured by miles rather than metres and needless to say the organisation had to be superb for such a population. It was more than superb; the mammoth task of providing facilities for Denmark's entire spejdere force had been undertaken with the efficiency of an army's military expertise. Water had been above ground, huge loo and shower blocks built, and in the central area there was a bank, post office, supermarket, huge spejdere shop, doctor, camp police, coffee bar and restaurant.

An extraordinary quantity of pine trees had been provided for pioneering (has someone lost a pine forest?). Each Unit had constructed its own dining table - using tripods that stretched 8 to 10 feet into the sky and each district had a large impressive gateway. Each subcamp had a look-out tower for the bugler to use twice a day and an ultra-modern arrangement of poles as their own church and gathering.

Food was distributed centrally from each subcamp; each Unit cooked its own meals on wood with an endless variety of cooking fire arrangements.

The theme of the camp was Energy — man's use of the world's resources and his own personal potential. There was an activity-filled programme interspersed with vast, extremely professional camp-fires and services. Denmark was experiencing a heat-wave all the time we were there.

The camp was honoured by a visit from Princess Benedikte and all the International leaders were invited to a reception to meet her. She was very informed on the subject of British Guiding, spoke excellent English and I was thrilled to be able to talk with her.

The Danes are warm, friendly people, and their songs tend to be rather hearty, loud and in unison and the camping capabilities of all the spejderes was very impressive.

The camp finally ended, and poignant goodbyes were said amid the flurry of striking. We still had anwere treated royally; I personally had an insight into Danish farming and fell in love with the Danish countryside and culture. Ater a final day in Copenhagen - seeing 'the sights' - we flew back to Heathrow feeling that we had left behind a lot of very good friends. Our first taste of world Guiding had exciting; been warmth of the sisterhood of Guiding had permeated our periences and filled us with enthusiasm. The badge and address exchanges were but a other 10 days to spend in Denmark however, so our packing up was prelude to a journey to the small island of Falster. The spejderes of Falster had been our hostesses during the camp and took us back home with them. We token of the real genuine feelings felt by everyone at that camp—the hand extended in friendship seemed possible for the world, not just those 10,000 young people at that particular time at that specific place.

Thailand - 1982

On the occasion of the 25th Anniversary of Guiding in Thailand, the United Kingdom sent a party of eight Guiders and one Ranger to take part in the celebrations. They were: Miss Christine Martin, Middlesex East; Mrs Jill Jones, Essex West: Miss Nicola Care, Norfolk: Miss Jane Cox (Ranger), Newcastle upon Tyne; Miss Sheila La Riviere, Dorset: Miss Christine Marvin, Western Isles: Miss Christine Marvin, Western Isles: Miss Angela Sammons, Greater London West: Miss Helen Shuttleworth, Lancashire East.

We left London Airport on a typical November day. The fog kept us on the ground for three hours after our scheduled departure time. Eventually we were off, all a little apprehensive at the prospect of camping in a country so different from our own. The flight took twenty hours, and we were unable to get off the aeroplane until we reached Bangkok. There the heat hit us.

We were able to spend three nights in Bangkok before going on to the camp at Sri Racha, about 140 kilometres south. This gave us a chance to recover from jet lag' and get used to the heat.

The site is a permanent one which covers several acres and belongs to the Boy Scout Association of Thailand. Owing to traffic delays we arrived, along with the delegations from Australia, New Zealand, Japan and the United States, only just in time for the opening Ceremony, where the Camp Director and the Minister of Education made speeches of welcome — the only problem was that it was all in Thai! (We were given a transcript later.) The flags of the twelve participating countries and the World Flag were raised as we all sang the World Song.

We were put into our sub camps and met the people with whom we would be sharing the next six days.

Camping in Thailand is very different from the UK. Can you imagine erecting a mosquito net every night and sweeping out the ants before putting down the bedding? In November and December rain is scarce, but we did have a typical English deluge, but no kagoules were needed as everything dries very quickly.

The kit list we received before leaving home had suggested we bring a swimming suit and a bathing costume. We all decided that they were the same thing and that it was a typing error. We were soon to discover that they are quite different. A swimming suit is self evident, but a bathing costume is what you use to bath - or shower - in. It is a length of cloth which is wound round the body. You then go to the bath house where there is a large concrete bath full of water, and, using a silver bowl as a ladle, you pour water over yourself. The camp site became a mass of washing lines where 'bathing costumes' hung to dry.

One of the big shocks was the short time the Guides slept. Often the evening activities went on until 10.30 pm or later, and yet the girls were all expected to be up for exercise at 6.00 am. Throughout the night they took it in turns to do guard duty, so rarely did the leaders get longer than a two-hour stretch of sleep.

The Thais were very aware that we couldn't manage rice at every meal and did their utmost to provide food we could enjoy. Nonetheless we ate some strange things. Perhaps the biggest surprise was on the day when we opened our packed lunch boxes to find bacon and egg — and rice, of course. It was all cold but very palatable.

The six days were packed with activity, culminating in the celebrations with fireworks on the last evening to honour the King's birthday, and to celebrate the Silver Jubilee of Guiding in Thailand. From camp the International party went to stay at the Naval Base at Sattahip Bay. We were not expecting the luxurious accommodation overlooking the sea. The Navy laid on entertainment and a pleasant boat trip around Sattahip Bay, which included a lunch break at Pra Island, the SEAL Unit Base (Sea Air and Land Unit). Here some of our party went scuba diving.

Then we returned to Bangkok and spent two nights with our host families. During the day we were taken to see all the sights, including a visit to the Grand Palace. While there we were allowed into chambers not normally open to the public; one more indication of the special privileges we were afforded throughout our stay.

Later that day all the International visitors had the honour of being presented at Court to the Princess Chulabhorn, the King's youngest daughter. Each delegation presented her with a small gift. We decided to give her one of our red neckerchiefs, on to which we had sewn our nine county badges.

Two more days finishing our shopping brought this memorable trip to an end. We have learned a great deal, and we hope that we have given something in return by teaching our crafts and by passing on ideas we use in camp at home. We have made many friends from around the World: from Finland to New Zealand, from Taiwan to the USA.

The Thai people made us most welcome and taught us a great deal. The Guide Movement in Thailand has established training centres around the country to educate girls in various crafts. The goods they make are marketed through the Association Headquarters in Bangkok. The Movement is also involved in a project to help slum areas around the capital. There is a great deal of poverty in Thailand, and it is good to know that the Guides are helping in practical ways. We have much to learn from our Thai sisters, and we feel privileged to have had the opportunity to share their Silver Jubilee Celebrations with them.

With a Little Help

A new film explains the work of two of the Church of England Children's Society's Family Centres. 'With a Little Help' demonstrates how the problems of children and families living on estates usually labelled as dumping grounds can be tackled through centres which respond to the strengths of the community.

Unemployment, delinquency, vandalism and isolation can destroy family life. The Children's Society's Family Centres aim to prevent family break-up to support each member and to encourage both mutual and self help. No child can be treated in isolation from its family or environment, so it is vital for centres to become part of everyday life.

As one of the project leaders says very clearly in the film: 'Happy families make happy children'. And that's what The Children's Society aims for.

The film, which the Society loans free, is 16mm full colour, 18½ mins, and is available from PR Department: Church of England Children's Society, Old Town Hall, Kennington Road, London SE11 4QD, 01-735 2441.

New Concept in Personal Safety

The Lifesaver Personal Beacon from Harrier Marketing Ltd is a new concept in signalling equipment and of particular interest to those concerned with personal safety.

The lightweight British-designed unit consists of an internationally recognised strobe beacon combined with a map reading/torch light. The strobe light flashes at two second intervals for up to seven hours, emitting a powerful beacon three hundred times stronger than an electric torch.

Visible to the naked eye at half a mile, the distance extends to two miles with binoculars. For practical reasons, the map light is separate from the flash unit. Smaller than a man's hand, the Lifesaver Personal Beacon has an impact resistant case and built-in strap to carry it on the wrist or belt, leaving both hands free. The waterproof lamp will float if it is dropped into water, and also has a built-in magnetic plate which enables it to be attached to a vehicle or a rucksack frame.

The Lifesaver Personal Beacon is an indispensable piece of equipment for clubs, societies, organisations and individuals who participate in outdoor sports or activities where personal safety is a risk factor. It is available from retailers at approximately £13, or direct from Harrier Marketing Limited, PO Box 1, Crofton, Wakefield, West Yorkshire WF4 1UZ.

Craft Competition To Help Blind Children

Get your knitting and sewing needles ready because this year's Sunshine Fund craft competition is now open and entries must be received by 5 September. All entries will be considered as donations and once judged, put on show at the Royal National Institute for the Blind at 224 Great Portland Street, London, and sold to raise money for the blind children in RNIB's Sunshine nurseries and schools.

The competition has four categories for craft work — soft toys; knit and crochet; stitch and sew and teoestry and macrame, with three age-groups. First, second and third prizes will be awarded for each category in the adult and senior citizen sections and three overall prizes for the under 16 age-group.

Last year's winners included an embroidered picture, a matinee jacket, hen with chicks, a Victorian doll, a beautifully dressed rabbit, and the overall prize went to the maker of an exquisite Fair Isle jumper.

Entry is free; entry forms and further information are available from the Sunshine Fund Craft Competition, 224 Great Portland Street, London W1N 6AA.

Facilities for the Disabled and Visually Handicapped at National Trust Properties

Each year the National Trust provides more facilities for the disabled and visually handicapped at its properties. The publication named in this heading is the Trust's annual booklet on the subject, About 50,000 of these free booklets Facilities for disabled visitors at the Trust's houses and open spaces are both practical and imaginative. Ideas range from improving existing facilities, including wheelchair access, and supplying more wheelchairs, special lavatories and ramps at properties, to building bird hides for disabled birdwatchers, installing wheelchair walkways to beauty spots and viewpoints and at some properties, providing scented flower arrangements when visually handicapped visitors are expected.

The Trust now has about a dozen Braille guidebooks — and some taped commentaries for the visually handicapped are available; notably at Cliveden Garden, Buckinghamshire, and at several properties in Northern Ireland.

Guided tours for the visually handicapped are organised at Murlough Nature Reserve, Northern Ireland, and a nature trail for the disabled has been opened at Ebbor Gorge, Somerset.

At Clumber Park, Nottinghamshire a fishing platform has been remade to incorporate a concrete ramp and raised rail sides which permit safe fishing from a wheelchair; and at the Giant's Causeway in Northern Ireland a bus has been fitted with a special wheelchair hoist.

The Trust will continue to improve, extend and add to these facilities; it is determined that every effort is made to encourage and welcome disabled and visually handicapped visitors to as many of its properties as possible.

Copies of 'Facilities for the Disabled and Visually Handicapped in 1983' are available, free, on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope (not smaller than 8½ × 4½ in). The booklet should be used with the annual 'Properties Open booklet, which can be obtained by sending 60p (including 25p postage) to: The National Trust, 42 Queen Anne's Gate, London SW1H 9AS.

The Responsible Society

Set up in 1979, the Society consists of people who are concerned about the damage being done to human dignity, welfare and happiness by the mis-use of new social freedoms — particularly the exploitation of sex.

Readers can help the Society by becoming a member at a minimum annual subscription of £5.00. Those who cannot afford this sum can become supporters for a minimum of £1.00 a year. Schools and other institutions can become Associate members for £7.50 or £15.00 per annum according to size.

The Society will enable you to perform an educational role among your family or within the Guide or Ranger Unit by passing on the results of their research, together with informed opinions of medical and social workers. Leaflets published by the Responsible Society in-think this book will prove to be a most useful addition to the Ranger Unit library. Don Robinson writes from extensive personal experience, backed up by sound technical knowledge. He progresses through from bivouacking, using the minimum of equipment, to more sophisticated lightweight camping/backpacking techniques, covering in the process the basic areas of shelter, equipment, catering, navigation, clothing and First Aid. Throughout he emphasises the need to respect the environment, and thus centres the readers' thoughts on to wider ecological issues related to the backpacking scene. This certainly adds to the value of the book for the Ranger Unit, for it takes the reader on to consider the application of the skills suggested to an ever-changing scene which is ours to enjoy, not to destroy.

This book is easy to read, the illustrations are clear, and there is a wealth of information here, which will give the reader not only technical knowledge, but also the reasons why the suggested action should be followed. I enjoyed it.

Cornish Coastal Walks for Motorists, Eleanor Smith. Warne, £1.95.

This book contains 30 circular walks for motorists around the Cornish coastline. It covers the North and South coasts from Boscastle to Fowey, and also includes three walks over the moors. Each walk, ranging from three to seven miles, has an excellent diagram and a short history of the area. At the start of each walk there is a suitable place to leave a car.

One of my favourite North coast walks is from Portreath to Porthtowan and back. Portreath was once an important tin exporting port. This is a seven mile walk for the experienced walker. The route takes you up the old tramway from Scorrier, looking across at Carn Brea and back along the top of the towering cliffs, where the scenery is magnificent.

on the South coast one of best walks is around vey. This four mile walk takes you from Lankelly Lane down over the fields towards Menabilly, once the home of Daphne du Maurier, who wrote such novels as Rebecca and Frenchman's Creek. At the bottom of the hill you join the coastal footpath through Lankelly Woods, with fine views of Polruan. Afterwards a visit to picturesque Fowey is a must.

The book finishes with three moorland walks. The Cheesewring at Minions, on Bodmin Moor, is worth visiting, and this walk takes you past the ancient stone ring known as The Hurlers and up to the Cheesewring. These natural piles of flat granite rocks are a fascinating sight to see towering above you.

If you are visiting Cornwall this summer this book is vital for seeing some of the beautiful unspoilt Cornish scenery.

The Kremlin Cat And The Bomb, K G Babington. Oriel Press Ltd, £6.95.

Feliski the Kremlin Mouser is chosen to infiltrate the Pentagon. After going to Spy School he is sent to Washington. His loyalty is based on the belief that American leaders are cruel and ruthless, out to destroy Russia. After CIA mice capture him, he is sent back to Moscow but soon begins to reflect on men's suicidal policies. He organises a meeting of the Kremlin mice and the American mice in Bali, explaining each country is wrong in thinking the other aggressive. The animals then launch a fantastic plan to totally disarm both sides. Feliski is the trained leader but in the end it is mouse power that wins the day!

This witty satire showing the human race learning from the animals has many levels of meaning — carrying the message of peace rather than pacifism.

'Peter Rabbit's Gardening Book' with illustrations in colour taken from the Beatrix Potter Peter Rabbit series has easy to follow instructions on how to grow most of the flowers, fruit and vegetables mentioned in the Tales, for both indoor and outdoor gardening.

There is also information on how to prepare the soil, watering and germination and how to grow herbs and more advice besides for Brownie-age gardeners.

SEB

Home-Made and at a Fraction of the Cost, Polly Pinder. Search Press, £8.95.

The more the world embraces modern technology, the more we tend to look back and hanker for the traditional ways of the past. This trend has turned into something of a cult carried to extremes, but the basic truth is that in many cases home-made products are not only better but save a great deal of money. This book, of under 150 pages, is itself expensive, but is packed with ideas that not only save money but offer many hours of creative pleasure, many of them ideal for use by Guiders with their Units.

In addition to the expected chapters on growing herbs, making pickles and preserves, there are clearly illustrated instructions on how to make soft cheese, smoking and curing, sweets, nature drinks, scents and pomanders, cosmetics and unusual soaps from sage and cucumber to strawberry! The book is lavishly illustrated with really beautiful colour photographs and would make a perfect gift.

Birds Of Britain And Europe; Trees Of Britain And Europe; Butterflies Of Britain And Europe; Freshwater Fishes Of Britain And Europe, Kingtisher Books Ltd. £1.95 each.

As outdoor activities increase once again. Brownies and Guides will be noticing their surroundings and wanting to know more. Not every Guider can be an expert on all facets of natural history but knowing 'where to look it up' will be a great help in fostering a new interest.

Kingfisher Books publish a series of field guides which are small enough for pockets and excellently illustrated in colour with a very good descriptive text. The Tree guide gives an outline of the shape of the trees in winter as well as in full leaf with flowers and fruits; all the variations in the Butterflies appear in full detail. The guide to Birds shows changes of plumage in different seasons and every one has a distribution map to show habitats. The guide to Freshwater Fishes will open up a new world for many who have so far seen only flickers in the water.

When a creature can vanish as soon as it's aware of you, it's very difficult to find the right page in any book to make an identification (plants are much easier!). In most of the books you have more success if you already have some idea of what you are looking for, although the guide to Butterflies has solved this problem by printing a page showing general appearance of ten different families which will send you to the detailed sections. It's always better to learn to observe very closely so that you can carry the image in your head to look it up later. These books would make very welcome additions to Unit or camp libraries, ideal for study both before going out and afterwards.

Other titles in the list include Wild Flowers, Mush-rooms and Toadstools, Horses and Ponies, Mammals, Fossils, Minerals and Rocks, Stars and Planets.

London Festival Ballet

This company's education and community unit was set up tiree years ago. Wherever the company s performing, the education unit arranges special demonstrations and events in which local schools and youth groups can take part. They also arrange workshops and master classes, and are always keen to discuss ways in which they can do more by setting up a special event to suit the needs of a particular youth group. They also have some very attractive project packs about three of their best-known productions. Romeo and Juliet has the story described in a full colour folder which opens out into a large poster of one of the most dramatic scenes from the ballet. It also gives a detailed production chart, a brief introduction to dance notation, and a 'blunder ballet' picture strip quiz of what not to do on stage! The Sleeping Beauty project kit also opens into a beautiful colour poster; it tells the story of the ballet, something about the ballerina and the designer, and gives a quiz in which captions must be matched up with scenes from the ballet. Inside is a sheet of puzzles and a sheet of figures to cut out to make a scene from the ballet. Both these are very suitable for younger Guides, and the most recent pack, on the new production of Swan Lake, is ideal for those aged 12 and over. In addition to a poster and production notes, this beautifully designed pack has sheets on the story, and history, the production, and resources for study.

The packs are available to teachers at 30p each plus 20p postage and packing for the first two. 75p plus 20p p&p for Swan Lake. Orders for 10 or more packs are free of postage and packing. If you would like to do a ballet project with your Unit write to: Education and Community Unit, London Festival Ballet, 39 Jay Mews, London SW7 2ES.

Sadler's Wells Royal Ballet

If you are planning your first visit to ballet and would like to know more about what you are going to see, Kate Castle is always willing to send you information and literature about any individual ballet. She is also happy to arrange a lecture/demonstration on all aspects of dance, costumes, etc. or to consider any suggestion for a special evening on dance for any group of Guides or other young people.

Miss Castle has also made a most generous offer of free copies of beautifully illustrated booklets on the Royal Ballet and Sadler's Wells Royal Ballet, for readers of GUIDING. They contain all sorts of interesting articles and photographs, but as they are rather bulky, postage is difficult. However, if your Unit is planning a visit to London at any time, Miss Castle is quite happy to leave bundles of these booklets, 20 or 30 at a time, at the stage door for your collection.

For further information write to Miss Kate Castle, Information Officer, Royal Ballet, Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, London WC2.

Help World Wildlife Fund

Anyone who loves chocolate (or knows someone else who does) can help the World Wildlife Fund raise £10,000 to save jungle animals!

Honey bears, leopards and orangutans, elephants, rhinos and tigers, are some of the chocolate jungle animals featured on Animal Bar milk chocolate. And for every standard size Animal Bar wrapper collected during the coming months, Nestle are donating 1p to WWF up to a target of £10,000.

As a special thank you to everyone who supports this appeal and saves eight or more standard size Animal Bar wrappers, Nestle have produced a free full colour height chart, illustrated with lots of jungle animals. The height chart measures 42 × 120cm and even if some chocolate eaters already stand more than 4ft high, it still makes a lovely gift for a young child.

For that special treat — or for grownup appetites — Nestle make a large size Animal Bar. For each large size bar wrapper Nestle are donating 2p to WWF so only four wrappers need to be saved for a free height chart. Animal Bar also comes in multipacks of four standard size bars which could give the whole family a chance to join in the jungle fun and help Animals from the African savanna, the jungles and the world's oceans have been captured on the boxes of new Kleenex Wildlife tissues.

Three strikingly illustrated boxes featuring six of the world's most popular animals have been specially designed for the Kleenex Wildlife tissues range, produced by Kimberly Clark in association with the World Wildlife Fund.

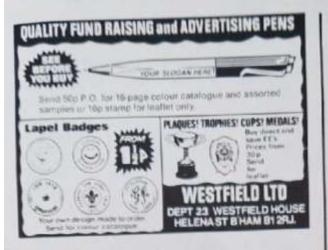

For every box of Kleenex Wildlife tissues sold, Kleenex are making a donation to the World Wildlife Fund. For those who would like to learn more about the six animals featured on the boxes, Kleenex and WWF have produced a folder of three, full colour fact sheets, which are packed with lots of interesting information about these and some of the other animals living in the savannas, jungles and oceans. To receive the fact sheet pack, just collect three Kleenex Wildlife tissues box tops and send them with 50p to the address on the bottom of the box.
